ESHOTT HALL

MORPETH

This Georgian gem is just so photogenic; an idyllic, timeless country house venue, boasting its very own Ballroom, Victorian fernery and a chapel, only a short stroll away. What's more weddings here have exclusive use status.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS COUNT

Drive through iron gates and down the sweeping driveway and a perfectly proportioned, Georgian country house awaits. The hall itself, crafted from mellow honey-coloured stone, has an appealing facade. Especially in the early summer, it's as pretty as a picture, with the wisteria cascading fragrant blooms over the Hall's front elevation and portico. On entering the hall, the sweeping staircase features a William Morris jewel-coloured stained glass window. Simply breathtaking, it was almost made for a dramatic 'reveal' of a bride's wedding gown.

STUNNING SURROUNDINGS

Surrounded by its own mature gardens and grounds, in typical English-style with striped lawns, a kitchen garden, tennis courts, Victorian fernery and grounds with a gazebo, all surrounded by a fine selection of specimen trees and acres of ancient woodland. Enchanting outdoor weddings can take place here in the fernery and woodland area, for a botanical-styled wedding with natural gazebo, wooden benches and a 'wedding aisle' with a difference, made from tree bark!

CHAPEL CEREMONY

The Village Reading Room, once a Methodist Chapel, provides a pretty setting in the local village of Eshott for tying the knot, only a short stroll away from the venue. It is licensed for up to 80 guests.

STRICTLY BALLROOM

The elegant Ballroom is the reception suite, with French doors opening onto the gardens, it is full of natural light, enhanced by eighteenth century style, gilt mirrors and sparkling crystal chandeliers - it is a superb room in which to stage bridal celebrations for up to 120 guests... It also boasts its own private bar area too!

TIME FOR BED

Bridal couples are spoilt for choice with some bedrooms featuring four-poster beds and roll-top baths to add to the romantic ambience. Lovely country house-styled bedrooms, in the main hall and a lodge close by, as well as cottage-style accommodation, gives guests plenty of choices of where to stay.

Exclusive Use Weddings from just £2950, based upon winter seasonality.
